In "Paris in 1793," a pretty French comedy, Mr. Downing is given an oportunity to display his versatility in other than classic roles. The other members of the company, which include J. W. ### PASTOR AND WIFE ON STAGE

Rev. Edward Davis Joins Robert Downing's Company in Council Bluffs.

MRS. DAVIS IN "THE DEVIL'S AUCTION"

former Clergyman Believes He Can De More Good by Acting Than by Sermons, and is Engaged in Writing a Piny.

"From the Pulpit to the Stage," forms an interesting chapter in the career of Rev. Edward Davis, who after preaching the gospel for five years, forsook the ministry to become an actor and yesterday joined Robert Downing's company in this city. Rev. Edward Davis, when but 20 years of age was pastor of the Central Temple in Oakland, Cal., one of the largest congregations on the Pacific coast. He was striking figure in the pulpit and his theatrical style of preaching attracted attention. He was widely advertised as "The Poet Preacher." "The Talmage of the West" and "The King Richard III of the Pulpit. One of the leading New York papers describing the young preacher said,: "Rev. Edward Davis is an actor-preacher, a word preacher on the Pacific coast." After three years in the church, Rev Davis decided that for him to continue to fill a pulpit would be to lie. He realized that while he believed in the Divine Deity. be was better fitted for the stage than the pulpit of the church. He had reached the age when he commenced to think, and the fusing to do so that a commissioner be infitness for the ministry as it existed. Talking on the matter of his leaving the church for the pulpit yesterday, Mr. Davis

"I left the ministry because I fully realized that the sermon was entirely impotent to the sufficient conviction of men, and I assuredly believed that the religious producing such plays as "Faust," Second Mrs. Tanqueray" and the Vadis" will produce more lasting result than a homiletic exposition of rhetoric. Three years ago I refused a call to one of the largest churches in Australia at a salary of $2,500, and in my determination to go upon the stage, realizing that had ability in that direction, went to New York, where I secured a position in a stock company at $10 a week. Although I went by my right name of Edward Davis, I have always carefully concealed my identity as the former preacher. I wanted to gain sessed any, and not by any free advertising. I later joined Charles Coghlan's company and last season was leading man in Frohman's company, playing "The Ad-venture of Lady Ursula." Two weeks ago I received an offer from Mr. Robert Down-

Today she is leading lady in "The Devil's Auction" company, appearing under her maiden name of Margaret Kingore Rev. Davis has just completed writing

CITY COUNCIL REFUSES CHECK. Five Thousand Dollars Involved in

The city council last night finally de-$4,999.40 deposited by the Omaha, Council Bluffs & Suburban Railway company for the cost of the paving on South Main street between and one foot outside of the track recently laid by it on that thoroughfare. This check, which represents the amount that is to be refunded to the abutting property owners, who have long ago paid for this paving, has been in the hands of the city clerk since November 1 last. Up to last night the council refused to take any action regarding the check for fear of compromising itself in reference to the disputed right of the motor company to lay second track on Main street. The law provides that the cost of the paving should be deposited with the city treasurer and by him distributed to the property owners entitled to it. This the notor company was desirous of doing, but City Clerk Phillips refused to part with the heck unless on orders from the city council. City Treasurer True has announced that he will refuse to distribute 1 cent of the money unless on orders from the council and this the council refuses to do. In the meantime the property owners who desire to get back the money which they paid out for the paving have to wait until dermen and the motor company. Dan Carrigg Wants His Share.

The matter was brought before the council last night by Dan Carrigg, one of the ious to secure the share that is coming to him. The only satisfaction he got was to be informed that the city council had absolutely nothing to do with the check and he was referred to the company attorney. The discussion that followed developed the fact that the motor company had asked to be returned the check, but the city clerk had declined to surrender it without orders from the council. In order to dispose of the matter so far as the city was concerned Alderman Clark moved that the council refuse to accept the check and that it be returned by the clerk to the motor company.

As soon as the matter of the check had been disposed of Alderman Brown introduced a motion to the effect that the motor company be notified to take up its track on South Sixth street between Ninth and Sixteenth avenues. He withdrew the motion. however, when informed by the city solicitor that the injunction restraining the company from removing its tracks on that street, secured by H. I. Forsyth, had not been dissolved and the case was still pend-

The young men, it is set forth in the pe tition filed, have been working for wages and supporting themselves, independent of their parents, and succeeded in saving up $1,000, with which they purchased a farm. Their father, they allege, waived all right in and claim to their wages or earnings, but, understanding they could not, being under age, hold title to property, they had the deed to the farm made out in the name 'bean' poker, and the most popular of their father as trustee.

The father, they say, is willing to convey the farm to them, but their mother is a different mind. DIAMOND ROBBER'S PARDON

End of Famons Pollock Case from Near California Junction.

SHERCLEFF SERVED BUT SEVEN YEARS

Sentenced for Seventeen-Crime for Which He Was Convicted a Bold One-Donbt as to flis Identity and Connection with Crime.

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 21 .- (Special.)-There was always some doubt in the minds of many persons conversant with the facts surrounding the trial of Frank Shercleff for the Pollock diamond robbery as to his identity with the robber and his relationship to the gang of thieves supposed to have profited by the theft. This doubt was what culminated in the release of Shercleff from prison after serving about seven of the seventeen years for which he was sentenced. Shereleff had been fully identified by the victim of the robbery, but there were evidences of doubt in the minds of nany persons at the time of the trial. It was supposed he was the notorious "Kid" McCoy, or Ed Burke, well known in the western cities; but this may never be known. The crime for which Shereleff, as he said his name was, was convicted was that of robbing William C. Pollock, a traveling man for a diamond bouse, on a train from Omaha to Sioux City on the evening of November 4, 1892, near California June tion. Pollock had been showing goods it Omaha during the day and was followed to the train by a man whom he had seen in Jewelry store in Omaha.

When the train crossed the river at Blair the stranger approached Pollock and struck him over the head with a bag of shot. The bag burst and scattered the shot and did not do injury to Pollock to prevent him from immediately rising in his seat.

Three Shots Are Fired. The robber fired three shots from a revolver at Pollock, hitting him in each arm and in the breast, but not doing serious injury. The passengers in the car were panic stricken, and not one arose to help Pollock. In fact, the passengers did not know what was going on and were unable n such short notice to tell what they should do. The two men fought together in the car aisle up to the front end, where the robber demanded Pollock's money. In his testimony later Pollock said he was on the point of getting his pocketbook when the robber thrust his hand inside Pollock's vest and drew therefrom his wallet, containing the diamond samples, valued at air brake and in the darkness jumped of into the weeds. The robber made good his escape, and Pollock, who was pretty badly used up, was taken to Omaha and placed in a hospital for treatment. In due time Pollock recovered and a reward was offered for the conviction of the robber. Pollock was unable to give a good description of him.

Identifies the Robber.

Some time the next summer a man was arrested in Leadville, who was identified by Pollock as the robber. He gave his name as Frank Shercleff and said that his parents lived in Pittsburg. He was indicted in Harrison county, Iowa, in September, 1893. In the meantime a gang of safeblowers was under arrest in Terre Haute, Ind., and one pleting the canvass in the remaining six Terre Haute and declared that Bruce was tered means less than that and, not the man. In spite of this an attempt was made to have Bruce indicted in Harrison county. On the trial of Shercleff two women swore positively that he was not the man who had committed the robbery on ville testified that he had known Shercleff well in Montana five years before, that he saw him at Aurelia, Ia., in October, just before the Pollock robbery, that Shercleff went from there to Leadville, and that he was in Leadville on the day the robbers was committed. This and much other similar testimony was discredited as an attempt on the part of Shercleff's pals to get him out of trouble. He was convicted, and on September 22, 1893, was sentenced to seventeen years for the robbery. Shercleff always protested his innoceace, and on being sentenced pleaded for leniency because of ill health. The diamonds were not recovered

Smallpox Still Spreading.

In addition to these cases reported the secretary, Dr. J. F. Kennedy, reported six cases in Livermore, which he personally discovered. He received word Sunday that there were suspicious cases there and he went to Livermore, arriving at a late hour at night, returning this morning, but in the brief time he was there he found six cases in two families. The disease has existed for some time in the home of Carl Douglas, but was concealed, it is charged, to prevent quarantine. Today he brought several jars of butter to town, and the fact of sickness existing there caused an investigation. This disclosed that several members of the family were suffering from smallpox. As the city has been suffering from the effects of the dread disease for some time the act of Douglas aroused great indignation, and his family was immediately placed under strict quarantine by the local authorities.

In the treatment of certain special diseases there can be no comparison between the ability of the ordinary doctor and that of the trained, scientific specialist.

The trouble with the ordinary doctor is that he tries to do too much. In his fruitless effort to conquer the whole field of medicine and surgery he so scatters his talents that he becomes proficient in no particular branch. Like the Jack of all trades, he is master of none. He possesses no special skill, no expert knowledge of any given subject, but is simply a "cure all," who can do but little more for the alleviation of human affliction than the vender of specifics, free samples, trial treatments or similar devices, which do not and cannot cure diseases and weaknesse peculiar to men.

But the true specialist—not the ALLEGED specialist, whose pretended specialty includes every human ill, as their announcement simply—but the genuine expert never attempts to do more than he can do well. His persistent study, diligent research and scientific investigations are all on the line of a few diseases, a single class of them, on which all his efforts are concenterated and to which his entire practice is strictly limited. Hence he becomes easily supreme in his chosen field.
